SOCIAL STUDIES EDUCATION

Code IHAC Issued 01/021/22

Purpose: To establish the board's adherence to social studies academic standards as adopted by the state board of education.

~~Informed citizen participation in public life is essential to the health of our democratic system. A variety of experiences (including those using interdisciplinary approaches) in the social sciences of economics, sociology, psychology, geography, political science, anthropology and history enables students to function effectively and contribute constructively within society. These experiences must include both learning about and using the tools of the social sciences. An effective social studies program must prepare young people to live, work, compete and solve problems in our increasingly diverse nation and interdependent world.~~

~~The social studies program will provide the opportunity for each student to acquire the knowledge of content and concepts, develop critical thinking skills and processing skills and adopt values necessary for responsible social, political and economic participation in a diverse, interdependent and changing world.~~

~~The district will develop curriculum guides to present learning opportunities to students so that skills and knowledge as presented in the state academic standards may be acquired. The curriculum will address kindergarten through twelfth grade.~~

~~The district's instructional program for social studies education is designed to provide the opportunity for students to acquire the knowledge of content and concepts, to develop critical thinking and processing skills, and to adopt values necessary for responsible social, political, and economic participation in a diverse, interdependent, and changing world. Through implementation of the state academic standards, students will achieve college- and career-readiness by learning to analyze historical evidence, evaluate it, and then demonstrate their understanding of that evidence.~~

~~Schools will expose students to a variety of experiences (including those using interdisciplinary approaches) in the social sciences of economics, personal finance, sociology, psychology, geography, political science, anthropology, and history, enabling them to function effectively and contribute constructively within society. Schools will also include instruction on the founding principles that shaped the United States, including, at a minimum, the Declaration of Independence, the Emancipation Proclamation, the Federalist Papers, the structure of government, the role of the separation of powers, and the freedoms guaranteed by the Bill of Rights.~~

Constitution Day and Citizenship Day

In accordance with federal law, the district will offer educational opportunities each year on September 17th to commemorate the September 17, 1787 signing of the United States Constitution

(if this date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or holiday, Constitution Day will be held during the preceding or following week). The superintendent will establish guidelines ensuring that the district observes Constitution Day in a manner befitting the importance of the event in the history of the United States.

Veteran's Day

All schools in the district will provide one hour of class time or assembly time for the study of the United States Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. This hour of study will be on November 11, Veteran's Day, or as close as possible to this date if schools are closed on the school day immediately preceding November 11th if schools are closed on Veterans Day.

Schools may allow students to attend activities to honor veterans on this day as part of the instructional day. Parents/Legal guardians may request in writing that their child be excused from participation in such activities.

Educationally related presentations (speeches) by a sitting President of the United States or Governor of South Carolina

A respect for high elected office, regardless of party affiliation or political viewpoint, is an important aspect of an informed citizenry's participation in public life as described in the rationale set forth elsewhere in this policy. Accordingly, should a sitting President of the United States or Governor of the state of South Carolina visit a school or schools within the district, or should a speech related to education, generally, during school hours and offered for the encouragement of public school age children either statewide or nationwide be scheduled by the holder of either office, the schools within this district are allowed to facilitate such presentations by providing spaces for members of the student body to witness such personal presentations or to provide electronic media by which students may hear or watch broadcast communications of such speeches or presentations, subject to the following conditions.

- That this policy is intended to encourage the facilitation of such opportunities but is not a mandate that students witness, hear or watch a personal visit or broadcast presentation.
- That the scheduling of such presentation does not interfere with previously scheduled, district wide testing and, if so, a copy of the presentation may be made by the distance educational learning center and may be thereafter offered at a time to be set after such testing is completed.
- That should a teacher choose to use the speech as a part of his/her intended instructional plan, upon parental objection the teacher will provide an alternative assignment.
- That parents/legal guardians may request in writing that their children be excused from participation in such activities and supervision for alternative, appropriate activities will be made available.

HOME SCHOOLING

Code IHBG Issued 1/021/22

---

Purpose: To establish the basic structure in which parents may educate their children at home instead of enrolling them in district schools.

The board recognizes that parents or guardians have a right to teach their children at home.

~~The parent or guardian wanting to teach a child at home may do so if the instruction is conducted under the auspices of the South Carolina Association of Independent Schools (SCAIS). Bona fide members of the association who comply with the academic standards of the association do not need approval of home schooling programs.~~

Option 1 - Parents or guardians may teach their children at home if the instruction is conducted under the auspices of the South Carolina Association of Independent Schools (SCAIS). Bona fide membership and continuing compliance with the academic standards of South Carolina Association of Independent Schools exempts the home school from the further requirements of Section 59-65-40.

Option 2 - Parents or guardians may teach their children at home if the instruction is conducted under the auspices of an association for home schools which has no fewer than fifty members and meets the requirements. Bona fide membership and continuing compliance with the academic standards of the associations exempts the home school from the further requirements of Section 59-65-40 or Section 59-64-45.

~~If a parent or guardian does not choose to be a member of SCAIS, the parent or guardian must submit an application for home schooling on a form provided by the district. The applicant will supply all the information required by law prior to the board's consideration of his/her request. (See IHBG-R.)~~

Option 3 - If parents or guardians do not choose to instruct their children under the auspices of SCAIS or an approved home school association, the parents or guardians must apply for home schooling by completing the district approved application. The applicant will supply the information required by law prior to the board's consideration. (See IHBG-R)

If the board disapproves the proposed program or course of study, the board will notify the applicant of his/her right to appeal. The applicant must appeal to the South Carolina State Board of Education within 10 days from the date of the disapproval.
